

12 Graduate With 'High Distinction'

Twelve students who received their degrees from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln at the end of the first semester of the 1973-74 school year received them "with high distinction."

"With high distinction" is the highest academic honor conferred on a graduating student. Students receiving their degrees "with high distinction," their parents, collegiate majors and career plans were:

Pamela Sue Ackles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orie Ackles of Ord, majored in elementary education in Teachers College and plans to teach in an elementary school.

Sharon Joyce Moore Boeckenhauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Moore of Winnebago, majored in English in the College of Arts and Sciences, plans to teach English and speech in northeast Nebraska and to operate a farm with her husband.

Dennis E. Brodersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oran L. Brodersen of Coleridge, majored in animal science and agronomy in the College of Agriculture.

Dick Coffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Coffman of Broken Bow, majored in agricultural economics in the College of Agriculture, and will attend graduate school at the Iowa State University.

Karen Delgadillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Froslev of Peoria, Ill., majored in elementary education in Teachers College and will be an elementary school teacher.

Karen Geiler Forbes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Geiler of Omaha, majored in home economics education/extension in the College of Home Economics. She will teach home economics or do extension work in Douglas County.

Nancy K. Hill McClerry of Lincoln, majored in English in the College of Arts and Sciences, and will conduct poetry writing sessions in public schools throughout Nebraska.

Nancy J. Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim N. Peters of DeWitt, majored in English in the College of Arts and Sciences, and is going into teaching.

Carol Jane Knolle Rinne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee M. Knolle of Sioux City, Iowa, majored in elementary education and music in Teachers College and hopes to teach in the elementary schools.

Mary Patrice Shelledy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shelledy of York, majored in Spanish and English in the College of Arts and Sciences, and plans to teach and travel.

Gary Ralph Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Simpson, Stromsburg, majored in electrical engineering in the College of Engineering and Technology.

Elke Erika Langmann Strunka, daughter of Mr. Willi Langmann of Berlin, Germany, majored in business administration in the College of Business Administration.

Energy Bill Deadlocked

Senate Buckles To Oil-State Filibuster ... House Refuses Compromise

Washington (UPI) — The House refused Friday to accept a Senate compromise on a bill to give President Nixon emergency powers to deal with the energy crisis and prolonged the adjournment of Congress for Christmas.

The Senate proposed breaking a stalemate by passing an interim bill that would expire April 1. The House balked, voting to stand by an earlier measure worked out by Senate and House conferees.

A compromise in the Senate, engineered off the floor among Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Rep. Harley W. Staggers, D-W.Va., and White House aides broke a Senate filibuster over the "windfall profits" section of the energy bill.

Last Obstacle

The energy measure was the last obstacle in the way of adjourning the 93rd Congress. Early in the day an increase in the Social Security benefits and relief for financially failing railroads passed and were sent to the White House.

Working in a 14-hour session, the House first refused in two successive votes to accept quickly fashioned compromises with the Senate version and then decisively rejected the Senate proposal.

House GOP leader John Rhodes said the Staggers compromises would be vetoed and even if the House did pass them, the Senate assistant Republican leader, Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan, informed him there were not enough senators left in town to act on the new compromise either Friday night or Saturday.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., accused oil-state senators, who earlier in the day talked against the conference agreement, of "filibustering in the interests of big oil."

'Best Possible'

"This is the best possible agreement under the circumstances," Jackson said, an obvious reference to the fact that the filibuster could not be broken without making concessions.

The compromise deleted any guidelines on "windfall profits" that might accrue to oil companies during the energy crisis, the issue that provoked the dihard filibuster led by Sens. Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., and Russell B. Long, D-La.

The final bill also changed the expiration date of the legislation from May 15, 1975, to next April 1, removed a provision that would have required the federal energy administration to submit his budget requests to Congress the same time he does to the Budget Bureau, and limited reporting requirements on oil producers to the Justice and Interior Departments, instead of including in addition the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Power Commission and the General Accounting Office.

Despite White House pressure, Jackson said, the Senate refused to exempt about two dozen conservation measures from possible vetoes by Congress.

He said energy chief William E. Simon specifically asked exemptions for a proposed mandatory ceiling on the amount of gasoline that can be sold to an individual and a ban on outdoor lighting.

But Jackson and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said they would fight any attempt by Congress to veto these two conservation measures if Nixon imposes them.

Earlier, Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., the House floor leader for the bill, had vowed he would refuse to accept any weakened version of the original House-Senate compromise, which included strict congressional controls over any conservation measures Nixon might propose.

Jackson had hoped to eliminate the windfall profits amendment to gain passage of a pared-down bill. But Staggers said he wouldn't buy such a deal.

The Senate and House passed a compromise 11% increase in Social Security benefits for 30 million Americans.

The two-tier increase, with the first installment of 7% appearing in the April pension checks, would be financed by a payroll tax increase on middle and upper income workers.

Simon 'Impressed'

Simon said he was "tremendously impressed" with the public's response to administration appeals for voluntary cutbacks in energy consumption, including gasoline.

"We can lick this thing through conservation," he said.

Simon announced postponement from Dec. 27 until Jan. 11 the effective date for new mandatory fuel allocations for home owners, industries, the airlines and much of the rest of the public.

The fuel allocation program cut back gasoline production by 5% and set up quotas for business and industry, including a 2% cut in jet fuels.

He said the delay would give his Federal Energy Office more time to consider the more than 20,000 public comments on the proposed regulations announced last week. The regulations will now take effect in stages starting Jan. 11 and until Jan. 26, he said, with crude oil, propane and home heating oil first on the list.

Speed Limits Bill To Nixon

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Friday passed and sent to President Nixon a bill to set a nationwide 55 mile-an-hour speed limit in an effort to conserve gasoline.

The measure, approved by voice vote, warns states and localities if they do not comply with the maximum set in the measure they will lose their federal aid to highways payments. The President had asked for a speed limit of 50 for cars and 55 for trucks.

The bill provides that the 55 maximum applies to all autos, trucks and buses on highways with four or more lanes.

Highways with less than four lanes that had so-called "two tier" speed limits — 45 for trucks and 50 for autos as an example — as of November, 1973, could retain the lower limits but in no case could any limit on any highway exceed 55.

Increase In Postal Rates Is Cut Back By Council

Washington (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council (CLC) Friday cut back an increase in postal rates sought by the U.S. Postal Service. The result will probably be a two-month delay in raising the price of a first class stamp from 8 to 10 cents.

The Postal Service, now a semi-independent corporation, had asked the government's price controllers for permission to increase total mail revenues by $1.5 billion, or 18.7% in 1974. The added funds, to be derived from an increase in most mail rates, were expected to help the debt-ridden service to operate on a break-even basis next year.

The council, citing its campaign to hold down increases in the cost of living, said it would only allow overall postal revenues next year to rise by $1.3 billion, or 15.8% above 1973 levels.

This is a $236 million cutback, or 15% less than the service requested.

The decision is a difficult one because the Postal Service had made extensive plans for putting its new rate structure into effect in early January when it said it was necessary to cut losses. The preparations included printing millions of new 10-cent stamps.

The council stressed it was not directly interested in the postal rate structure but only in the total revenues the service will take in. However, in recognition of the new rate structure, the council said it "would have no objection" if the service achieved its revenue reductions by a delay in putting the higher rates into effect "until approximately March 1, 1974."

The higher rates were scheduled to take effect on Jan. 5.

Since the service already had increased costs under contracts let for 1974, a bigger reduction would have put the service into the red next year.

"The total mail revenues allowed by the council, however, should allow the Postal Service to break even in calendar year 1974 and should enable the postal service to maintain effective postal operations for all mail users," Dunlop said.

At the same time, the CLC exempted, from price controls permanent rates that are put into effect after proceedings before the Postal Rate Commission which are scheduled to commence in early 1974.

The CLC said it reached its decision, in part, from testimony given during two days of public hearings last month on the proposed higher mail rates.

JULIE AND STEVE . . . response was overwhelming.

Youth in Action Southeast High School Students Donate Food, Cash For Needy

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

There'll be fuller tummies in at least 30 Lincoln homes this holiday season, thanks to the students and teachers of Lincoln Southeast High School.

The school's student council, after a modest effort to help three needy families at Thanksgiving time, decided it would gear up full blast for the Christmas season.

Teachers got into the act (literally) by preparing a series of holiday skits for a Friday morning assembly. The council urged students to bring canned foods or cash donations as "tickets" to the show. And the student response surpassed the council's greatest expectations.

The stack of canned goods totaled more than 970 cans and the cash box contained about $90. More than 1,500 students, virtually the entire student body, attended.

Metzger Credited

Student council president Steve Sands gave credit for the success to Julie Metzger, another council member, who proposed the project and chaired the 15-member committee which worked out details.

"We got the idea at the state student council convention," said Steve. "Julie brought it up at a student council meeting" and the council was off and running, he said.

The council took some funds from its own coffers to fill the three baskets distributed at Thanksgiving, and then decided it wanted to do far more for Christmas.

Julie contacted local social workers to get names of families who would benefit, and the young people will take care of deliveries Saturday, in time for use during the holiday season.

Live Newsreels

Twenty-five Southeast teachers put their creative talents to work on the drawing card — the assembly — and came up with a series of vignettes staged as newsreels brought to life.

Old Santa was there too, played by Southeast Principal Wesley Lauterbach.

Once the fun was over, the students went back to work, sorting out the cans, buying the hams and getting the food baskets ready.

It's a sure bet the project added to the holiday merriment at Southeast, and it's bound to in the homes of the Lincoln families Saturday.

Winter Wheat Forecast Is 99.6 Million Bushels

Winter wheat production in Nebraska should total about 99.6 million bushels, part of a 1974 projected record winter wheat crop in the U.S. of 1,513 million bushels.

Both projections are based on crop conditions as of Dec. 1, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Despite unfavorable weather, Nebraska acreage sown to winter wheat this fall showed a 5% increase over last year, according to a report issued Friday by division director Douglas Murfield.

The report said an estimated 2.93 million acres were planted, the largest acreage sown to wheat in Nebraska since 1967. Many fields required reseeded owing to lost wheat acreage from flooding and washing.

The projected record crop nationally of 1,513 million bushels would be 19% above 1973, the previous record, and 28% above the 1972 crop. Dec. 1 conditions indicate 89.1% of the seeded acreage will be harvested for grain.

JUNIPERPERPER

The Elf Who Couldn't Do Anything Right

CHAPTER 10
By Bob Boyle

Juniperperper went out to the back porch and saw that the path to the reindeer barn was covered with snow.

The elf picked up a shovel that was leaning against the porch and started to clear away the snow.

"Wow! This is tough," he said. He kept shoveling and shoveling.

In 30 minutes he stopped and looked at what he had done.

"Oh, my goodness," he said. "I hardly made a dent in the snow. If I don't hurry Santa will never be able to get out to the reindeer barn in time to feed the reindeer."

He started again and shoveled and shoveled and shoveled.

"It's no use," he thought. I'll never get done."

Juniperperper stopped and looked around.

"Hey, that looks good," he said to himself. "A spigot and hose. I know what I'll do. I'll hook up the hose and turn on the water. The water will melt the snow and Santa will have a nice, clean path to the reindeer barn."

Juniperperper turned on the hose and started to swish the water over the snow. It began to melt.

Before you could say, "James McGillicuddy 10 times fast," the snow was gone.

"This really looks great," Juniperperper said to himself as he looked down the glistening path. He ran inside and called, "Santa, Santa, I've finished."

Santa replied, "You've finished? My, it seems as if you just started. I don't know how anyone could clear a path that rapidly. I had planned to send some of the other elves out to help you, but if you're done they won't have to. I'm proud of you, Juniperperper. Now let's go out to the barn."

Santa led the way as they stepped onto the back porch. "It certainly is clear," Santa said. "Look how it glistens."

Santa started down the three steps and as he put his feet on the pavement, swoosh...he slipped and skidded down the entire length of the walk.

"What happened? What's going on? Help. I'm sliding," Santa yelled.

"Help. I'm sliding," Santa yelled.

He ended up in a big snow drift at the end of the walk.

"What in the world did you do, Juniperperper?" Santa asked again.

"I'm sorry, Santa," Juniperperper said. "I'm sorry. I tried to help."

"But what did you do, Juniperperper?" Santa asked again.

"I put water on the walk to get rid of the snow," Juniperperper replied.

"Oh, no!" Santa said. "Don't you know that it is freezing cold up here and that the water would freeze. Juniperperper, you made one giant ice slide. It's a wonder that I wasn't hurt. Suppose Mrs. Claus would have fallen. I really don't know what to do with you, Juniperperper. I know you want to help, and I know you want to work here, but I can't have all this trouble."

"I'll call all the other elves together after dinner," Santa explained. "I'll have to tell them the mistakes you made and then it will be up to them whether you can stay or not. If they say you can't, then you'll have to go back to the Magic Snow Forest."

"But I get one more chance before you do that, Santa?" Juniperperper asked.

"Yes," Santa said. "Now, go and feed the reindeer while I sprinkle salt over this walk so no one else will slip."

Mrs. Claus was preparing dinner.

"I'm sure I had more peanut butter and jelly," she said.

"And bread. What happened to it? I'm sure I had some delicious chocolate cupcakes, too."

"Now I can't find them."

"Well, where is Juniperperper?" Mrs. Claus asked Santa.

"He went out to feed the reindeer," Santa said. "FEED THE REINDEER!! Oh, no, no, no."

"Oh, I hope Juniperperper isn't trying to feed the reindeer peanut butter and jelly," Santa said. "I'm sure he knows that they eat only grain."

Santa went running to the reindeer stable.

He opened the door and called, "Juniperperper, what are you feeding the reindeer?"

"Hi, Santa," Juniperperper said. "I got some peanut butter and jelly and delicious chocolate cupcakes from the kitchen, and I'm feeding them that."

"Oh, no," Santa said. "Reindeer don't like peanut butter and jelly. They eat grain, apples, and carrots, but never any sweets. Oh, what am I to do with you?"

"I'm sorry, Santa, I'm sorry," Juniperperper said. "What can I do to make it up to you?"

"Juniperperper, I'm afraid I'm going to have to call a meeting of the elves tonight," Santa said. "It will be up to them whether you can stay."

New York Times
News Summary

(c) New York Times News Service

Geneva — The first Arab-Israeli peace conference opened in Geneva with strong pleas by the United States and the Soviet Union for a permanent settlement that would avoid another Middle East war and break what Secretary of State Kissinger called "the shackles of the past." But hopes that the initial session would go smoothly were dissipated when an argument broke out between Foreign Minister Abba Eban of Israel and Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy of Egypt, indicating the separation between the Middle East adversaries. (More on Page 2.)

End To Oil Embargo Urged

Tehran, Iran — The Shah of Iran said that a tightening of Arab oil embargo would lead to an economic disaster and urged the Persian Gulf nations to end it. "Playing with the oil weapon is extremely dangerous," he said in an interview.

Japan Raises Discount Rate

Tokyo — Japan raised its official discount rate from 7% to 9%, an all-time high, as part of a major effort to curb the country's sweeping inflation. Parliament also approved two emergency bills that give the government power to fix prices and regulate the production and supply of oil and other necessities. In addition, Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka is expected in the next few days to declare a state of emergency owing to the energy crisis.

Arab Tanker Loadings At Peak

Paris — Judging from the activity at European and Middle East ports, the much-discussed shortage of oil may not be as acute as many thought it would. In fact, the tanker loadings at Arab terminals and arrivals at some European ports have never been higher.

Hughes Flees To Bahamas

San Francisco — Howard R. Hughes, the reclusive billionaire who had been living in London in the last year, has fled to the Bahamas, where he and his entourage established quarters in four penthouse suites at the Xanadu Hotel in Freeport, apparently to prepare a refuge from federal indictments expected to be returned against him next week in Las Vegas.

Serious Inflation Continues

Washington — The nation's most serious peacetime inflation continued unabated in November, according to Labor Department statistics. The consumer price index rose 0.8% after adjustment for normal seasonal changes in some prices. This was the same as in October, and was also equal to the monthly average rise in prices so far this year. Food prices resumed climbing after being relatively stable in September and October, and the index for all commodities, except food, rose 0.7%, its biggest monthly increase this year. (More on Page 2.)

Senate Approves Energy Bill

Washington — Bowing to intense White House pressure, the Senate approved a modified emergency energy bill, stripped of a section designed to curb windfall profits by the oil industry. It was uncertain, however, whether the House would agree to accept the stripped-down bill. Democratic leaders were clearly upset over what they termed interference by the White House. (More on Page 1.)

Bitter Recriminations Surface Fast

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Israel, Egypt and Jordan sat down under big power supervision on Friday to talk peace for the first time in history. The vast gap between them quickly surfaced in bitter recriminations over frontiers and charges of war atrocities.

Egypt and Jordan demanded total Israeli withdrawal from the territory they lost in the 1967 war. Israel refused to return to the pre-1967 frontiers.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko kept their speeches more general, appealing to both sides to work for peace.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, chairman of the inaugural session, said if the conference failed, the world would again face "a dangerous and highly explosive situation in the Middle East."

The delegates met on neutral ground at the Palais des Nations for a conference engineered by Kissinger's Middle East diplomacy.

But soon after Waldheim,

World News

Kissinger and Gromyko had spoken and the Middle East delegates took the floor, it became clear to observers that none of the sides had brought any substantially new proposals to air in public.

Toward the end of the first day's session, which lasted two hours and 20 minutes, Israel and the Arabs were trading allegations of war atrocities.

Nonetheless, the delegates agreed to meet again Saturday behind closed doors. Waldheim said these talks would deal with "organizational" problems, but Gromyko insisted the parties be free to raise "matters of substance."

This appeared to be a reference to the most pressing issue — separation and disengagement of Israeli and Egyptian forces locked in an uncomfortable truce on the Suez front.

In his speech at the conference, Kissinger said separation of forces was "an essential first step — a consolidation of the cease-fire..."

The conference began on the wrong foot with a row over seating arrangements. Egypt wanted the empty table reserved for Syria — which is boycotting the talks — to separate it from the Israeli delegation headed by Foreign Minister Abba Eban.

Israel called this "an act of ostracizing" and threatened to stay away from the opening session. In the end, Eban sat between Gromyko and Waldheim, to everyone's satisfaction.

Gromyko assured the Arabs they had Moscow's "full support" and blamed the Middle East crisis on Israeli policy.

But on the question of withdrawal — which will eventually decide whether the Arabs resume oil supplies to the West

— there was little sign of flexibility on either side.

Eban said Israel had come to the conference to discuss what sort of peace could be reached. He proposed a settlement with free trade, shipping and movement across borders.

"There cannot be a return to the armistice lines of 1949-67," he declared. "They proved to be inherently fragile, and served as a temptation to an aggressive design of encirclement and blockade..."

The most dramatic moment came near the end, when, in a surprise move, Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy rose to reply to Eban.

The Egyptian diplomat accused Eban of "talking to the galleries, for home consumption, and trying to distort facts."

Eban had attacked Syria for what he termed a "sadistic" refusal to move toward an exchange of war prisoners, and had also accused Egypt of ignoring Israeli queries on missing soldiers.

Fahmy implied Eban was raising the subject to satisfy voters preparing for Dec. 31 elections in Israel.

Eban also charged that Palestinian terror attacks on airports, and at the Munich Olympics resembled "the mentality and ideology which produced the gas chambers and gallows of Auschwitz."

Fahmy replied by listing a string of alleged atrocities committed by Israel: the killing of 254 Arab villagers by Israeli terrorists in 1947; an Israeli attempt in 1954 to bomb U.S. and British targets in Egypt and blame it on Egyptian hotheads; and several bloody Israeli incursions into Arab countries in reprisal for Arab guerrilla incidents.

Egypt, Israel Fights Sporadic As Talks Begin

TEL AVIV (AP) — Sporadic fighting broke out between Egyptian and Israeli troops along the Suez Canal front Friday as the Middle East peace conference opened in Geneva, the military command said.

One Israeli soldier was wounded during the day-long clashes that ended when darkness fell, a communiqué said.

Artillery, mortars, antitank missiles and light weapons were reported used during the shooting, a spokesman added.

One of the incidents occurred near Kilometer 101 on the Suez-Cairo road, where Egyptian and Israeli officers met for preliminary truce talks.

Antigovernment Riots Rock Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Leftist rioters machine-gunned a government building in Tripoli and barricaded highways and tore off traffic lights in Beirut in the fourth day of antigovernment rioting Friday.

A police spokesman said government troops drove off the attackers. There were no casualties, he said.

The government of Premier Takieddin Solh made no major move to crush the demonstrations that have swept Lebanon's three major cities. Observers said the government of this half-Christian, half-Moslem democracy appeared to be in no immediate danger.

In Beirut, thousands of demonstrators paraded through the streets shouting slogans against the soaring cost of living and denouncing government actions against student demonstrators.

Leftist groups claimed government supporters fired Tuesday at students peacefully marching to protest skyrocketing prices in Tripoli, Lebanon's second largest city 60 miles from Beirut.

The clash was followed Wednesday by the arrest of a local leftist politician, Farouk Mukaddem, on a charge of staging reprisal attacks on army and police patrols in Tripoli. His arrest touched off clashes which claimed the lives of four persons, including a soldier and a policeman.

But Friday, the government announced the release of Mukaddem in an apparent bid to curb the riots.

Tripoli was on general strike for the third straight day, and business was at a standstill.

In Beirut, the western half of the city was sealed off by rioters using street barricades, burning tires and bonfires. The airport highway was temporarily blocked.

Almost half of the capital was shut down in a partial strike.

Exports Dip 40%

Milan, Italy (AP) — Top officials of Innocenti-Leyland and Alfa Romeo, two big Italian auto makers, said their exports have dropped about 40% as a result of the oil crisis and related problems.

Boyle Pleads Innocent To Murder Counts

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Deposed United Mine Workers President W.A. "Tony" Boyle pleaded innocent on Friday to murder charges growing out of the 1969 Yablonski family killings.

Boyle was arraigned on the charges before Washington County Judge Charles G. Sweet, who set Jan. 28 as the earliest possible trial date. The judge told Boyle that he would face "hard-nosed and even-handed justice."

The defendant, ashen-faced and clad in green pajamas, slippers and a blue robe, listened silently from a wheel chair.

Committee Recommends Prison Move To Omaha

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

In a surprise move, the Legislature's Judiciary Committee Friday recommended on a 3-2 vote that the Men's Reformatory in Lincoln be replaced by a medium-minimum security prison in Omaha.

Action came on a motion from Sen. Richard Fellman of Omaha and followed a spirited discussion over whether Omaha should be included in the $14.3 million penal reform construction plan approved by the Exon administration.

That plan — hammered together in negotiations undertaken by committee aides and Exon administration officials — was presented to the committee Friday by Corrections Director Vic Walker.

All In Lincoln
It calls for construction of an adult diagnostic and evaluation complex, a 300-bed medium-minimum security prison and a 200-bed maximum security unit, all in Lincoln.

The plan was accepted by the committee — with the proviso that the medium-minimum security institution be moved to Omaha.

Fellman's motion was supported by Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha and Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln.

Opposing votes were cast by Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, committee chairman, and Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance.

To Be In Bill
The Omaha location will be included in the penal reform bill presented to the 1974 Legislature by the committee. But the final decision as to site will be left to the full Unicameral.

Fellman's proposal cemented a plan first suggested by Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha to locate the medium-minimum security unit in Omaha, perhaps at the vacated facilities of Fort Omaha.

The largest percentage of inmates would be Omahans, Fellman said, and they could best be provided with community rehabilitation services in the Omaha job market and near their families.

'First Priority'
Rehabilitation of the offender should be "the first priority," Cavanaugh told the committee. But, he said, the plan was constructed with "a preconception that all facilities should be put in Lincoln."

Luedtke noted that he supported the original proposal of the state's correctional reform consultants which called for medium-minimum units in both Lincoln and Omaha. The 1973 Legislature approved such a program, but then sustained Gov. J. James Exon's veto of funding for two prisons.

"I don't care if it's all built in Omaha as long as it's built," Luedtke said.

But, he said, Omaha is now constructing a new regional jail complex which could be included in the plan. And there would be no land acquisition costs for a medium-minimum security prison in Lincoln since Reformatory grounds are available, he pointed out.

The Exon administration plan calls for an immediate appropriation of $140,000 next month to begin planning for the construction program.

$2 Million
A $1.5 million appropriation would be sought in 1974 to begin construction of the diagnostic and evaluation complex by remodeling the vacated extended care building at the Lincoln Regional Center, and $500,000 would be requested to draw plans for the medium-minimum security prison.

Construction funds for the latter facility would be sought in 1975, while planning funds for the maximum security unit would be requested.

The program would provide $1.8 million for the diagnostic and evaluation complex, $7.4 million for the medium-minimum security prison and $5 million for the maximum security institution.

The $5 million would replace living quarters, dining facilities, administrative areas and the power plant at the Penitentiary. No additional funding "of an immediate or emergency nature" is necessary at this time for programs, Walker said.

Complex Bought By Housing Unit

A deed filed Friday with the Lancaster County register of Deeds showed that the Housing Authority has purchased Northwood Terrace at 23rd and Y for $775,000, according to revenue stamps on the deed.

Last week the Housing Authority authorized the purchase from five local insurance companies which had built the complex in 1969.

The insurance companies are Woodmen Accident & Life, Security Mutual, Bankers Life of Nebraska, Lincoln Mutual and Midwest Life.

According to the deed, the seller was the First National Bank and Trust Co., acting as trustee in the transactions.

Enforcement Patrol Team Is Still Active

The chief of the State Patrol said Friday that a special team of six troopers continues to reduce traffic accidents on 28 miles of highways adjacent to Lincoln.

Col. C. P. Karthaus said a selective enforcement team financed by a federal grant reduced traffic accidents 32% from the amount for the same time a year ago on Highways 6, 2 and 34 east of Lincoln.

The team began its work there June 1, 1973, he said. It is now working on Highways 6, 34 and 79 west of Lincoln, he said.

The team is showing similar but still untabulated success rates, Karthaus said. It will return to the original locations after Jan. 1, 1974, to continue experimenting with new approaches to traffic safety control, he said.

Sheriff Said 'Obligated' By State Law

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

A proposal to transfer routine patrol and criminal investigation duties out of the sheriff's office to the police department would probably need a change in state law.

County Atty. Paul Douglas told members of the Police Services Task Force studying law enforcement consolidation Friday that the sheriff has "certain responsibilities and certain obligations" outlined by state statute.

The question was raised by Task Force Chairman James Ackerman, who asked Douglas if the sheriff could contract with the city to conduct patrol investigations in the county.

'Don't Think He Can'

"I don't think he can delegate his responsibility to anyone else or contract them anyway," said Douglas, a member of the committee's parent City-County Implementation Commission. The proposed transfer was one of the recommendations made in a preliminary report on city-county law enforcement prepared by Floyd Sterns, an attorney and former deputy county attorney.

Douglas pointed out that even if the sheriff contracted with the city to perform those functions, there would be a question of continuity of the agreement if the incumbent sheriff were defeated in an election.

Douglas said he thought the "only way to go" would be to seek a change in state law.

Ackerman pointed out that the sheriff's office and police department cooperate extensively on investigations "on a free and easy basis."

'Color Of Uniform'

"Whether a transfer of personnel materially changes anything other than the color of the uniform is the question," he said.

Police Chief Joe Carroll said he thought the committee should consider transfers in duties "from an efficiency standpoint, not an economical savings standpoint."

Carroll said he did not think there would be any substantial savings to the taxpayer in the transfer since, as he put it, "We'd just be paying out of a different trough."

Sterns also recommended that the city turn over management of the city-county jail to the sheriff along with 20 police employees now working in the jail.

Douglas said he did not see that move accomplishing any more savings or more efficiency.

On City Side

"It surprised me that he (Sterns) recommended this," Douglas remarked. He pointed out that the jail is located on the city side of the building and is surrounded by the police department.

Task force members concurred with two recommendations made by Sterns on consolidating criminal record keeping and communications.

Sterns recommended the transfer of the county's communications system to the police department, along with the county employees who serve as dispatchers.

Carroll and Sheriff Merle Karnopp both noted that the city's and county's communications equipment are "compatible."

However, both law enforcement chiefs pointed out that they did not feel a substantial savings in salaries would occur by consolidating communications staffs.

On merging record keeping services, Douglas remarked said he favored that move as a county attorney.

"It would save a phone call or two," he quipped. Karnopp said that computerization of criminal records will have a tremendous impact on record keeping in the future.

Webster Files In 36th District

John Webster of Wood River has filed to place his name on the primary ballot for legislator from the 36th District.

The seat is now held by Gerald A. Stromer of Kearney.

George A. Boucher of Ravenna has also filed for the seat.

Webster paid his fees in the Hall County courthouse at Grand Island and deposited his filing papers at the secretary of state's office in Lincoln.

Bank Charter OK'd

The State Banking Department reported Friday it has approved a charter for a Southside State Bank at 84th and Harrison Sts. in La Vista, near Omaha.

Crime Commission OKs WICS Girls Home Grant

The State Crime Commission Friday gave final approval to a request for $25,000 to continue the operation of a home for girls sponsored by Women in Community Service (WICS).

The Region II Crime Commission earlier approved the request for funds to pay five para-professionals to work with about 12 girls and their families, and to pay for maintenance of the home at 1935 D St.

The commission also approved a request for $46,159 in federal funds from Omaha Municipal Court to establish an "intake office" with two staff members to conduct pre-sentence investigations for the court.

Another large grant application given approval was $149,262 to the Nebraska Penal Complex to continue a program providing inmates with vocational training and involving them in work release programs.

Arbuckle, Staff Intend To Quit United Indians

John Twobirds Arbuckle, executive director of United Indians of Nebraska (UIN), and his two-member staff are resigning effective Dec. 28.

Arbuckle announced his resignation in a letter to the board of directors, saying that he could not be part of an organization in which certain segments place priority on individual interests instead of working for the good of the whole.

He also confirmed that his recent conviction in Scotts Bluff District Court was in part responsible for his decision.

"I now look to the board of directors to provide new UIN leadership," said Arbuckle.

"I'm going to have to back off for a while," he added. "There's too much outside pressure."

Also resigning are A-Go Sheridan, area coordinator, and Miss Lilly Shangreau, secretary. Sheridan feels that there is "some backlash from some people" stemming from Arbuckle's conviction.

"They are afraid he (Arbuckle) would not be effective because of the trial publicity," suggested Sheridan.

Sheridan said that he is resigning in support of Arbuckle and because he "can't work with the attitude that the executive board of directors is showing."

Simon Asked To Provide A Thermostat

Washington (UPI) — One energy-conscious American has asked the government to send him a thermostat so he can turn it down.

He told Energy Chief William E. Simon in a letter that he did not have a thermostat in his house but would like to cooperate with the government.

Besides, said the man, using a thermostat sounded better than chopping wood for his fireplace.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

There is something good about the apparent unwillingness of service stations to voluntarily limit their customers to 10-gallon purchases of gasoline. At least some of the station operators will not be doing it simply because they value the steady customers they have.

For one thing, they don't want to have to tell such a customer, someone who has been trading with them for years, that they will give him only 10 gallons of gas. Secondly, the operators don't want to force their customers to go somewhere else for their products unless they have to.

They reason that they have worked to try to satisfy their customers and build good will with the driving public. To then send the customers off to another station for the part of their gasoline needs simply goes too much against the grain.

We find this quite easy to understand and are with the station operators 100%. It is heartening to hear some reassurance that there are still people in business who do things the old-fashioned way — trying to make their customers happy.

This writer has never appreciated the place of business that is interested only in getting your money. It still galls this writer to stop for gasoline and not get the windshield cleaned. But most service stations live up to their name, giving you service for which they get no direct pay.

If you have a tail-light out, they will put in a new bulb and charge you only the price of the bulb. Most of them clean the windows all around the car and you can even drop in for that service without purchasing anything if you have the need.

A service station will check the air in your tires, test the level of winter protection in your cooling system and perform a number of other tasks without charging you a cent. When traveling, you can use the station facilities as a rest stop or can ask and receive all kinds of advice on getting where you want to go.

There is probably no other institution in our economy where you get so much free service as you do today from your service station. In this respect, they are highly dependent upon the free enterprise system.

Without service, they are not much because it is not just in pumping gasoline that they make a profit. The profit comes in the distribution of other petroleum products and in the many other service jobs for which a charge is legitimately made.

But in all areas other than the pumping of gas, they face tremendous competition. With the exception of gasoline, everything else you get from a service station can be obtained elsewhere.

A station can be competitive in price on this score but its biggest asset is service. It is in service that satisfies the customer that it lures people to avail themselves of the other offerings of the station.

The voluntary limiting of drivers by stations to 10 gallons of gas undercuts the service foundation on which most stations exist. The voluntary idea may be all right for the individual, although we consider it nonsensical even to try it, but it should not be imposed upon the retailer.

The volunteer approach throughout the energy conservation movement has resulted in savings and has been a credit to the sense of responsibility of the American people. But if the nation has to save 25% of its gasoline consumption, which is reportedly the case, it is hard to envision the absence of ultimate mandatory regulations.

Such an end is not the most pleasant thing to contemplate but the situation demands practical leadership, not a popular emotional approach.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE Non-Twinkling Tree Lacks Festive Touch

NEW YORK — The next-to-last Sunday before Christmas is the day I traditionally corral Old Dad to string lights on the scraggly little bush by the front door and wrestle with the twisted electric spaghetti that keeps our Christmas tree twinkling.

But not this year. This year we did our part to help President Nixon fight the energy crunch with his "project independence." More enthusiastically, it turns out, than he did. (At last reports the White House trees will have "a few" lights.)

And so, for the first time since World War II, we have a blacked-out Christmas tree at our house. And it gives you a funny feeling. What it does not give us, no matter what our leaders in Washington say, is a patriotic glow that we are freeing kilowatts desperately needed to keep the nation going.

Maybe that's because we're not. Industrial experts tell us that all the outdoor Christmas lights in the country would burn up only one-fortieth of one percent of the yearly energy consumption. As for those tiny bulbs on the living-room tree, what they use is so little it's not worth adding up.

Still, it's a symbol. For one thing, a tree that doesn't twinkle doesn't look right. You can put up with it during the day, when sunshine fires up a small sparkle in the tinsel and ornaments. But at night, in the glare of the lamps, it just sort of goes dead.

Old Dad, almost unseemly in his glee at not having to unscramble miles of tangled lights (he swears something weird goes on in our basement between Christmas), still had trouble settling down to all that football he used to miss on tree-trimming Sunday.

Bothered, maybe, by the nagging thought that his (and the President's and everybody else's) color TV uses more kilowatts in one conference play-off than millions of Christmas lights do in a month.

The headlines aren't conducive to holiday cheer, either. We read that the cost of all fuel is going up, up, up... that every time they raise the price of gasoline it costs us consumers a billion dollars... that the oil industry is still shipping oil overseas to get higher prices from foreign customers.

There are reports that folks who make Christmas lights are facing bankruptcy, while the petroleum industry is chalking up record profits ranging from 34 to 483%. And a man who sells gasoline cans never had it so good; says he could sell "a million cans tomorrow" if he had them in stock.

Now the Senate wants to spend $20 billion on a 10-year "study" to find new fuel sources. And that doesn't include anything for research on nuclear energy. Which could cost another $5 billion.

There may be some good things to come out of the current crisis: fewer highway fatalities... lower insurance rates... healthier people... lower-decibel rock music... fewer snowmobiles tearing up the countryside.

But a Christmas tree that doesn't twinkle isn't one of them. And while it might perk up some in the glow of a roaring fire, at $1 a log I'm afraid old Dad's joy would be mixed.

City Passes Test

The eleven-inch winter's even storm which hit Lincoln Tuesday was the first real test of a new snow removal program which was implemented by Mayor Schwartzkopf after a blizzard tied up the city some three years ago. Lincoln had escaped snowfalls of similar magnitude since that time.

We think there is general agreement that city snow removal efforts passed the test by cleaning Lincoln streets after the latest storm in a generally prompt and effective manner.

One indication of public sentiment might be reflected in the fact that compliments as well as complaints were received during the height of the storm on the snow removal complaint line tied into the street department switchboard. This was a first, according to Public Works Director Robert Obering.

Obering was particularly pleased by the efforts of city crews to keep arterials open during the brunt of the snow storm. This was facilitated by cooperation from the police department, a lesser number of private vehicles bogged down on main streets and the fact that there were no equipment breakdowns during the initial removal period, he said.

Snow removal efforts in the residential areas, while successful in an over-all sense, were somewhat hindered by some equipment breakdown, the factor of equipment operator fatigue and parked cars, according to Obering.

The first two problems can be resolved by the city. Some "adjustments" in residential snow removal districts will be made so that equipment and operators will not be overworked, Obering said.

But it is up to the public to solve the parked car problem, which more than any other factor can prevent snow removal crews from doing a thorough job.

Cooperation has improved, but can be better, Obering said. He suggested such methods as sharing driveways in order to get cars off the streets during snow emergencies.

Snow removal is an emotional issue which seems to prompt even the most apathetic citizen to take interest in the services offered by government. During this latest storm, we think the city performed well. Increased public cooperation during the next snow emergency can make that performance even better.

One Man's Politics

The choice of John M. Doar to head up the House inquiry into the possible impeachment of President Nixon has met with acceptance by almost everyone in Washington except the senior Republican on the House Judiciary Committee, Edward Hutchinson, who grumbled that Doar was "not a Republican."

True, he is a registered Independent, but he was a registered Republican, has a Republican background and was an Eisenhower appointee.

He also has ties to the Kennedy family, however. And it was such ties that led to White House charges against former special prosecutor Archibald Cox that he was leading a partisan, Kennedy vendetta against the President. Charges which clouded the issues and led to a series of events — Cox's dismissal and its aftermath — which led in turn to an even further decline in the President's prestige.

JAMES RESTON

Let's Test-Run The Veep

WASHINGTON — Vice President Gerald Ford has conducted himself since his nomination and confirmation with dignity and amiable good sense, but he is not being given the sort of assignments that would prepare him for the presidency.

He is being carefully briefed. He is seeing the President more than Spiro Agnew did, and he is attending meetings of the National Security Council when they are held, which is not often, but mainly he is being used as a presidential ambassador to the Congress, a cheerleader for a dispirited Republican party and a public defender of Mr. Nixon.

These are natural roles for a popular and believable man, but they are limited and they serve the President better than they serve the nation. For in these uncertain times, when even the President cannot know whether he will retain his office through the next three years, the first task is to give him some on-the-job training in the executive branch of the government and get him trained in decision-making in case he has to take over.

There are plenty of places to be filled. For a while, former Governor John Connally of Texas was brought into help with the crisis in the White House, but that experiment soon came to an end, and not because the crisis had ended.

Then Mel Laird and Bryce Harlow, two popular men on Capitol Hill, were added to the President's staff, but both are now on their way out, so the President is relying again mainly on General Al Haig, Ron Ziegler, and Henry Kissinger.

The cabinet is strong at the center, with Kissinger, George Shultz at Treasury, and James Schlesinger at Defense working well together, and getting more independence, but most of the cabinet is comparatively inexperienced if not invisible, and a whole new team is managing the energy crisis, or vice versa.

For some reason or other, Presidents usually promise to give their vice president large executive responsibilities and then either forget them or turn them into ministers of propaganda. This is what President Eisenhower did to Richard Nixon, President Kennedy did to Lyndon Johnson, Johnson did to Hubert Humphrey, and Nixon did to Agnew.

After his first term as vice president, Nixon bridled at this assignment, and wanted to be taken off the political circuit and given responsibility for seeing that all major decisions taken by the President were faithfully and expeditiously carried out by the appropriate departments and agencies. He never agreed to the switch.

There are special reasons for finally putting this original Nixon idea to work now. The new vice president has spent most of his mature life on Capitol Hill as a party leader. He is an open, friendly, and intelligent man, who is trusted because he trusts his colleagues and does his homework.

But he has little experience in foreign affairs or economic and financial affairs, which are increasingly dominating the relations between the nations, and partisan work and legislative work, in the small and chummy atmosphere of Capitol Hill, are not the same as managing vast staffs and presiding over the great departments and agencies of the executive.

In some ways the partisan work hampers a man in the leadership of a nation. For as Nixon himself discovered when he was vice president, the more he concentrated on being the spokesman of his party, the more he alienated the opposition, and divided the people he eventually had to try to lead as president.

In fact, it is one of the misfortunes of Nixon's career that Eisenhower did not give him the experience he wanted in the White House from 1956-60, for had he worked closely with the departments in those days, he might have acquired more experience and respect for the professional civil service and the cabinet, rather than relying on the closed and suspicious gang he finally brought into the White House.

His problem is more difficult now. Talented men are not so eager to leave their jobs, put aside their investments and join a lame duck administration that has lost the trust of so many peo-

MATHIAS SOUSA

They Had A Dream

Mathias Sousa was one of the original settlers of what is now the state of Maryland. Sousa landed in the New World in 1634, with some 300 other "laborers and gentlemen" who established the colony on land granted to George Calvert, the first Lord Baltimore.

Coming to Maryland as an indentured servant, Sousa soon satisfied his obligations and became a free man, a member of the Maryland Assembly, a ship captain and an Indian trader.

Sousa's passage was arranged by Father Phillip Fisher, a Jesuit priest also known as Thomas Copley, under a formula worked out by Lord Baltimore to encourage settlement of the colony.

Every "adventurer" who transported five men between the ages of 16 and 60 to the colony would be granted in his name 2,000 acres of land.

Those transporting fewer than five were granted 100 acres for each man and 50 acres for a child.

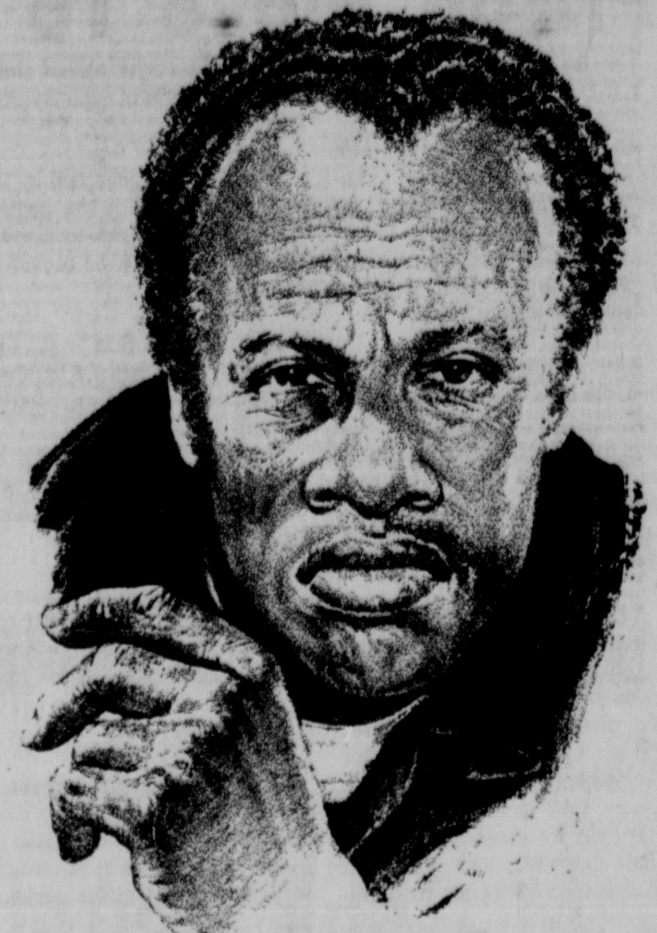

Sousa apparently was indentured until he had paid off the cost of his passage to Marland.

He was one of two Negroes in the initial party which sailed from Gravesend in England and arrived in Chesapeake Bay in March, 1634. The other was a man named John Price.

Very little is known about Sousa. In fact, if it had not been for land claims filed by Father Fisher for transporting Sousa to Maryland, his presence might have gone unnoticed.

Even Sousa's name is a subject of historical confusion. He has variously been referred to in a number of colonial documents as Sousa, de Sousa, Touse, Touse and Zause.

Sousa was a free man in 1641 because in that year he sat on the Maryland Assembly. Only free men were extended that privilege.

In the fall of 1642, Sousa was licensed to trade with the Indians during a period when the Indians were attacking and killing both settlers and trader.

A ship owner named Alexander Pulton placed Sousa in command of a pinnace and authorized him to hire a crew for a trading mission.

One of the men hired by Sousa was John Prettiman, a planter who more than earned his pay of 200 lb. of tobacco monthly.

Sousa inferred that the mission had been filled with danger and declared in a sworn statement that because of "Prettiman's means and presence, I verily believeth the pinnace and men were saved at that time from disaster by Susquehannons."

Sousa later was granted 50 acres and became a planter in the struggling new colony.

Believes In Nixon

Falls City, Neb.

The false accusations against our President are continuing, in spite of all the good he has accomplished. This so-called corruption attributed to this administration has been with us for more than 50 years, of my own knowledge, most of this time under Democrats in power.

We're NOT saying it is all right because it has always been done, but why is Mr. Nixon being crucified for it at this time? The only answer is that it is a political maneuver (dirty trick) by the opposition to prepare the way for the 1976 election.

Following Mr. Nixon's tremendous majority in 1972, it seems necessary for the Democrats to try to discredit him, so they could have a chance of success in the next election.

President Nixon did bring the soldiers and prisoners of war home from Vietnam. When the North Vietnamese first talked about peace, it was on their own terms. If our POW's had been left there, they would have been executed. Of course Le Duc Tho did not accept the peace prize. He had no intentions of keeping peace, only to remove the Americans so the North could have a free hand in the South to continue their atrocities.

Please remember that 77% of those who are calling for impeachment admitted when asked that they voted for McGovern in 1972. That was the smallest vote for the Democrats in our history.

As some of the senators expressed it, those who are pointing fingers at the President are really hypocrites — none of them would have been elected to Congress without the help of friends.

I believe in President Nixon sincerely.

A 'Get-Nixon' Move?

Lincoln, Neb.

In talking to some friends of mine, I found out that the "real reason" for the impeachment drive was to "clean up" dishonesty in government.

If this IS a clean-up move instead of an attempt to annul the mandate of the American people of a year ago, why don't we look further?

How does the bombing in Cambodia and North Vietnam compare with the Bay of Pigs, where Kennedy pulled out his promised support after the Cuban exiles were helpless on the beach?

Or the missing tapes compare with the remarkable events of the hushed-up Chappaquiddick nocturnal swim?

Let's investigate Johnson's ranch and Johnsonville, Texas, eh? That jet port and the rest of those improvements weren't just wished there. Or Hyannisport? San Clemente was but a sleepy beach town then.

The "private police force" some people entertain in their pipe-dreams and nightmares have always been with us to investigate American (and other) citizens who take secret documents to the Soviet embassy, and then on to the likes of Jack Anderson. (Why, even the Martyrs of Massachusetts employ them full-time.)

Mr. Nixon's money did not come from bootlegging nor is he worth millions after a life-time of public service. His V.P. papers tax-break is not unprecedented nor illegal.

So, where do we start with clean-up? Or is it a "get-Nixon" move? Ask yourselves.

As far as that "new cry" is concerned, we were warned decades ago that that was the only way a strong America could be broken down, from within.

Disapproves of Book

Crete, Neb.

I think it's time all parents become concerned as to what their children are given to read in school. Just recently I read a book that the 11th Grade students in Crete High School had to read for their English class and I was shocked at its contents. I am wondering why any teacher would ever approve of such material, exposing these young minds to such filthy trash and obscenities.

It is very disappointing that our tax dollars are wasted on books such as this that do nothing but corrupt the minds of all who read them. I am referring to "The Learning Tree." I hope all parents will read it and insist that it be banned from the classroom.

Good Neighbor

Lincoln, Neb.

When we see a good-neighbor act happen three times in a row, it's time to say "thank you" in a special way.

Our neighbor who lives at 2662 South 13th used his trusty snowblower up and down the entire length of this block from Hill Street to Harrison Avenue after each of our three snowstorms, to clear the sidewalks of his neighbors. Several of them are senior citizens to whom it means the most. This is my personal appreciation to one person who still believes in doing something for others. May his Christmas be especially blessed in the true spirit of "doing unto others."

A personable, brilliant, disciplined, ambitious, courageous and dependable young man delivers my Lincoln Star. He is the apex of his peers!

When Mike took over, I received his Lincoln Star letter. Then he made a personal call to introduce himself and to find a place to deliver the paper in wet weather.

On Wednesday, Dec. 19, after the big snow, I found the paper (ahead of time) neatly tucked inside the door. In contrast to this, an Omaha morning paper that I take was not delivered until six o'clock that evening as they made their collection calls.

Thursday, Dec. 20, The Star (ahead of time) and neatly tucked inside the door contained a very thoughtful and personalized Christmas card.

Having carried papers for eight years in the Grand Island area — which included the old Bee News — it isn't the attrition of age that makes me admire this boy. It is the boy himself. What a pleasant and comforting thought it is to know that there are still Mike Allens in the world today! His parents, understandably, must be laden with possessing pride.

McCook Couple Arraigned For Murder

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Stockville — The grisly Hoyt murder case, one of the state's most sensational crimes in recent years, shifted Friday to this quaint and remote village.

The Frontier County seat, Stockville, has a population of 60 and boasts a courthouse which is literally a tourist attraction for its antiquity. Of frame construction and with only five offices, it has had indoor plumbing for scarcely a decade.

It was in this setting Friday that Harold and Ena Nokes, charged with the murder of Mrs.

Wilma Hoyt of rural Culbertson, were arraigned.

In a surprise statement, the court was told that a quantity of pills was found hidden on the persons of both defendants after they were arrested.

Asst. Douglas County Atty. Sam Cooper, who will help the prosecution, said Nokes had 53 pills of different types hidden in the waistband of his trousers and Mrs. Nokes had 71 pills in her brassiere and purse.

Cooper said he felt the court had "some obligation" to protect the defendants from possible suicide and therefore they should not be released on bond.

He also said there is "reason to be concerned about the welfare of one witness who is rather a key witness."

Judge Wendell Cheney of McCook ordered the couple held without bond. A joint preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 14-15.

Neither defendant spoke in the courtroom, and both appeared calm and collected.

The proceedings lasted less than an hour. Both Schroeder and Cooper appeared for the prosecution.

Defense attorney Dick Hove of Kearney represented both defendants, who were in the courtroom at separate times. There appeared to be a possibility that a formal trial following the preliminary hearing, could also be a joint procedure. However, court officials said, separate trials may be held.

Cooper identified most of the pills found on the two defendants, including eight found on Nokes which he said were narcotics. Twenty-four others were Nytol, 17 Sominex and four Codeine.

He said Mrs. Nokes had 30 Siminex, 23 Nytol and seven Endo pills concealed in her bra and 21 unidentified tablets in her purse.

Judge Cheney said that despite the "good conduct" of the defendants, Nebraska statutes do not permit him to release them on bond.

A battery of newsmen stood by, since the case has already captured national interest. Two dismembered bodies, identified by officials as those of Mrs. Hoyt and her husband, Edwin, were found in nearby Harry Strunk Lake.

Another dimension was added when Frontier County Atty. Fred Schroeder acknowledged that "sex is a part of the case."

He said the Hoyts' 30-year-old divorced daughter, Mrs. Kay Hein, had a "relationship" with the Nokeses.

The old Frontier County Courthouse is no stranger to blood, violence and sex. A case tried here in 1950 involved a man and woman who were accused of murder.

Mrs. Norval Johnson and Harvey Durbin, a hired man with whom she was having an affair, were found guilty of killing her farmer husband.

Evidence showed that at Durbin's suggestion, the wife poured gasoline in the basement, which resulted in a fire that burned her husband to death.

Durbin later took his own life in the Nebraska State Penitentiary. Mrs. Johnson was released from the York Women's Reformatory in 1967.

The current Frontier County attorney's father, the late Fred Schroeder Sr., prosecuted that case.

Stolen Checks Forged, Cashed

Checks stolen several months ago have since been forged and cashed for several thousand dollars, a Citizens State Bank official said Friday.

The checks, belonging to the Nebraska Economics and Business Association, were stolen from the office of Nebraska Wesleyan University Professor Clayton Feis.

Clarke Gellerman, assistant vice president at the bank, said the Federal Bureau of Investigation has been investigating the case since mid-September, when the first forged check appeared. Since then, he said, about 14 forged checks have been cashed.

4 Names Added To List Of State's Traffic Dead

By The Associated Press
Two tractor accidents, a car-pickup mishap and a car-truck accident added four names to the list of Nebraska traffic victims.

Harlan D. Kimes, 35, of Dawson, died Friday of injuries sustained in a car-truck accident in Humboldt Tuesday.

Kimes was driving a county truck when the accident occurred.

The driver of the car, Ira S. Hylton of Humboldt, escaped injury, authorities said.

The State Patrol said Friday the tractor victims were Donald E. Vacha, 28, of Gibbon and Edward J. Matulka, 48, of Valparaiso.

Troopers said Vacha was killed Wednesday night when his tractor went off a county road and rolled about seven miles north of Gibbon.

The patrol said it received a belated report of Matulka's death. He was killed Dec. 11 on a county road one-half mile of Ceresco when his tractor went into a ditch.

Killed in the car-pickup collision Thursday night was Mrs. Gertrude Larson, 58, of Gurley.

Mrs. Larson died in a Sidney hospital Thursday night several hours after she was injured in the two-vehicle collision at a county road intersection two miles southwest of Gurley.

Authorities said Mrs. Larson was alone in a car that was in collision with a pickup driven by Kenneth McMillen, 35, of Sidney.

McMillen, his son Douglas, 12, and daughter Katryn, 7, were treated at a Sidney hospital.

Candidate Marvel Takes Poke At 'Caretaker' Exon

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer
Omaha — State Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings Friday strode into the Republican gubernatorial arena with an assault on what he characterized as the "caretaker" administration of Democratic Gov. J. James Exon.

"I feel that there is an obvious lack of leadership emanating from the governor's office, a dearth of ideas and an absence of progress for the state," Marvel told an Omaha press conference.

And Nebraskans, he suggested, are "tired of a caretaker governor, a governor whose vision of leadership is dimmed by twin cataracts of political ambition and personal pride.

'Lead To Growth'
"They are tired of an administration that fails to see the need to pursue a course that will lead to growth for Nebraska."

Marvel, 56, the 18-year legislative veteran who has headed the Unicameral's Appropriations Committee for more than a decade, thus took early aim at Exon as he prepares for what could be a virtually uncontested primary election.

One by one, other major Republican prospects for governor have backed away from a 1974 race, leaving the tall, white-haired Hastings lawmaker as Exon's most likely general election opponent next November.

During his 18 years in the Legislature, Marvel said, he has served with seven governors. "I have never had the concern about the future of Nebraska that I do now," he declared.

'Crisis Of Confidence'

"Nebraska has a caretaker governor who is unable to either recognize or respond to the crisis of confidence that Nebraskans are beginning to feel concerning their leadership," he said.

Unveiling his candidacy before Omaha television cameras at the Press Club, Marvel said he welcomes his role as underdog to Exon.

As a basketball center at Hastings College, he recalled, he was assigned to the third team, "but before the season was over, I had moved up to the first team.

"I did it in athletics" and in gaining advanced degrees in higher education, Marvel noted, "and it doesn't bother me at all."

Unlike Exon, Marvel said he will not announce any preference for a lieutenant governor running mate. Exon earlier this week endorsed the candidacy of Hastings attorney Gerald Whelan on the Democratic ticket.

Under the constitution and the law, Marvel said, the voters, not the candidates, are "supposed to select the running mate."

'Door-To-Door'

Marvel said he hopes to "campaign basically on a door-to-door, county-to-county basis" as he has been able to do in his legislative district.

Specific issues will be addressed "as this campaign develops," he said.

But Marvel pointed to mental retardation and mental health programs, penal reform, "cohesion" in higher education programs, taxation and economic development as issues which he will confront.

"I am running for governor," he noted in a two-page statement, "because . . . I have gradually concluded that Nebraskans are not yet receiving the kind of effective government that they deserve and for which they are paying."

In a sharp aside, Marvel later told newsmen that he and others in state government "have been talking about fiscal responsibility before the governor ever came down from South Dakota." Exon moved to Nebraska as a teenager.

Marvel said he will take an unsalaried leave-of-absence from Nebraska Wesleyan University, where he is chairman of the political science department, during the campaign.

1967 Discrimination Complaints Turn Up

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

It was learned Friday that an undetermined number of discrimination complaints dating back to 1967 have been found "hidden in file cabinets" of the State Equal Opportunity Commission.

According to two commissioners questioned, the complaints were never acted upon and apparently forgotten.

The files were reportedly found when a secretary from the commission's Omaha office came to Lincoln to help out after the commission's office staff resigned.

Commission member Mrs. Essie Burden of Lincoln said she has "no idea" what happened to the complaints, but she said the commission will attempt to find out.

'Welcome Investigation'

"The complaints had not been processed," she said. "I can't say it was deliberate right now. We welcome an investigation, and we're going to try and find out for ourselves."

The commission, she said, is now attempting to process the complaints.

A statement issued by the commission said the complaints were discovered following the resignation of Reid Devoe as director earlier this fall.

When questioned, Devoe replied it could be possible that complaints dating back to 1967 were found, because he said he found many such cases set back and forgotten when he joined the commission in September, 1968.

Thought Found
"I thought I had found them all," Devoe reported.

Emmett Dennis was in charge of the EOC in 1967, prior to his forced resignation following an audit which severely criticized bookkeeping and office procedures of the commission.

The commission also reported Friday it is trying to pay attorney fees held in abeyance since 1971. Mrs. Burden said she is uncertain how much is owed the attorneys, who served as hearing officers, but she said a deficit appropriation will probably be needed to settle the debts.

"The bills were not brought to the attention of the commissioners when the previous director (Devoe) asked them to approve the budget he had prepared," a commission statement said.

The commission also charged some of the recent staff resignations "were designed to try to discredit and embarrass the EOC's effort to adequately serve the people of Nebraska."

Cities Consider Power Rate Changes

Syracuse — At its Jan. 7 meeting, the City Council expects to approve new electric rates that will result in a 20% rate increase to an "average" customer. The new rate schedules were suggested by a consulting firm retained by the council to prepare a major revision of the rate fee structure. Meanwhile in North Platte, the City Council has reversed an earlier decision to approve a 3% hike in natural gas rates and voted instead to withhold approval of the hike at least temporarily.

Bus Program To Expand To Public

Wilber — Public transportation is undergoing some changes here. The Senior Handi Bus program, a membership bus system set up for the elderly, will continue for another year and now anyone will be able to ride the buses with no membership required. Glenn Zajack, in charge of the system, is seeking bids for a new bus to serve Saline County residents.

Two Area Salary Hikes Set

Wahoo — The City Council has voted to give salaried city employees a 5% cost of living increase effective Jan. 1. In nearby David City, the Butler County Board of Supervisors has adopted a new salary schedule for elected county officials, with a built-in cost of living escalator clause. The schedule will go into effect in January 1975. New salaries for the clerk, treasurer, assessor, sheriff and attorney will be $9,600 annually compared to the present $7,980. The clerk of the district court and county superintendent, now making $7,200 will get increases to $8,640. County Board members will continue at their $3,300 annual salaries.

York Chamber Tabs New President

York — Loren Pieper has been elected president of the Chamber of Commerce, succeeding Robert Pralle. Other new officers include Harvey Hyde, first vice president; Emmett Scott, second vice president, and Marion Bonham, secretary-treasurer. The Chamber board voted to discontinue lighting the "York" signs on Interstate 80 until April 1, 1974, to conserve energy.

Richmond Re-Elected Fire Chief

Falls City — J. O. Richmond, longtime chief of the Falls City Volunteer Fire Department, has been re-elected. Wilfred (Butch) Young has been re-elected president of the Falls City Volunteer Firemen's Association.

RSVP Spreads A Little Happiness

MRS. BELVA RILEY . . . visits with Tabitha resident, Vera Hughes.

By GRACIA SIEB
Star Staff Writer

"Spread a little happiness and it rubs off on you!" says a publicity brochure for the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP).

With that theory in mind, RSVP is designed to enable retired persons, 60 years and older, to participate in volunteer work throughout the community.

"As people retire, we try to get them involved in meaningful ways in service to the community, and to insure a continuing positive self-image," explained Mrs. Pauline S. Anderson, project director.

"Volunteer work develops interests that they (retired persons) have had, but never had the opportunity to develop before," she continued, adding "It's a real challenge."

Initiated in July, RSVP is a federally-funded program sponsored by Community Education and Development.

"Through a series of coffees, we are starting to recruit volunteers, and, in the meantime, we have been establishing working relations with people and businesses who have positions to fill," the director noted.

At this time volunteers can perform tasks at various locations such as hospitals, retirement homes, television stations, craft shops; and mission, handicap, mental health and day care centers.

Their duties are just as varied and include bookkeeping, clerking, answering telephones, assisting various programs with clients and patients, maintenance of grounds and buildings, and leading tours.

In an effort to make volunteering easier for retired persons, RSVP provides a number of services which include transportation or paying for transportation and meals when needed, and providing special RSVP accident insurance for volunteers while they are serving.

One RSVP volunteer is Mrs. Belva Riley who volunteers one day a week at Tabitha Home.

While at Tabitha, Mrs. Riley assists the staff at mealtimes, helps with mending and visits with several of the residents.

"EVEN . . . a pat on the hand."

"I like it," Mrs. Riley said about her volunteer work. "It is something I can do to fill my time. I don't have enough to do at home and I need something to keep busy."

"Many of my friends ask me if it isn't depressing to work here. I always tell them that everytime I leave I feel that I'm one of the fortunate ones. When my husband picks me up, I'm so glad to see him and to have a home to go to."

"Most of the patients on my floor can't talk, but they understand, even if they can't carry on a conversation," she continued. "Even a pat on the hand they like."

"Twelve years ago, after a fall and surgery, my doctor told me that I could end up in a wheelchair if I didn't keep busy. I think this incident has made me better able to understand about those in a wheelchair," said Mrs. Riley who has been a RSVP volunteer since late October.

"One thing I wish people would do is come in and bring their films or slides of trips, because the residents like that," Mrs. Riley emphasized. "Tabitha also needs volunteers in the crafts room and shops and people to read to and write letters for the residents."

There is a need for volunteers in other areas at Tabitha too, according to Mrs. Ruth Ireland, volunteer supervisor.

"One area of need for volunteers is to help provide residents with transportation to doctors and dentists," she said. "We also need people in the gift shop for which we hope to have someone to take over the management."

"Also, we need help with our library program and for men, we need those who would be willing to work at maintenance and custodial jobs."

"We try to have our volunteers work two hours a week at the minimum and usually not more than six hours a day," Mrs. Ireland explained. "This way they have a free life and can volunteer when they want."

"At Tabitha, volunteer work is not a short-term thing. People have to make a long-term commitment to develop a real friendship which will endure through the resident's life, as any friendship would."

"In our volunteer program we always hope for people who can work with the staff and still be independent and work on their own with minimal instruction," she concluded.

All in all, RSVP offers the mature person an opportunity for a rich and full retirement.

This attitude perhaps is best summed up in the poem "Youth, Day, Old Age and Night" from Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass," which states:

"Youth, large, lusty, loving — Youth, full of grace, force, fascination, Do you know that Old Age may come after you with equal grace, force, fascination?"

MENDING CLOTHING . . . is one of tasks performed by volunteers.

There Are Greater Treasures

DEAR ABBY: About a month ago we had a flash flood, and I lost nearly all the treasures I had saved for 45 years. Albums filled with pictures and snapshots, letters, clippings — none of which can be replaced. I had them stored in plastic containers, and when I opened them, all I found was mud and water!

It seems that a part of my life is gone, and I am heartsick over it. I am 60 and have had a very happy life. Our children are married and gone, and there are just the two of us.

I've tried to keep busy and not dwell on my loss, but it is on my mind constantly. I wish I could forget this terrible nightmare. Somehow I feel that you can help me. Abby, have you ever lost any of your treasures? And if you have, how did you get over it?

DEPRESSED IN HOUSTON
DEAR DEPRESSED: Yes, Dear. I lost my beautiful mother in 1945. (She was only 57). And a few years later, I lost a wonderful father. (He was 62). And not a day passes but what I don't thank God for letting me have my parents for as long as I did. I know many who were not nearly as blessed as I, and I think of those who have survived a far greater tragedy — losing their children.

Now, what were you saying about clippings and pictures and other "treasures"?

DEAR ABBY: Out of the blue, my wife told me she had just terminated a love affair with a friend of ours, but she wouldn't tell me his name.

I now feel very awkward around all our friends, and I've asked my wife to tell me which one it was so I will quit having negative feelings about all of them. She claims it is all over now so his name is unimportant. How can I get her to name the man? I do not want to end our marriage.

EENY MEENY MINEY MO
DEAR MO: Tell your wife you think she invented the whole story to make you jealous, and unless she tells you his name, you aren't buying her "confession."

DEAR ABBY: I have had several heated arguments with my wife over the following problem: When I die, I want to be buried as soon as possible. I do not want a funeral, with flowers, prayers, a priest, and a bunch of long-lost relatives and friends kneeling beside my made-up corpse. I believe all that nonsense only prolongs the agony of immediate family and close friends.

My wife says she will not allow my wish to be carried out. Can I take legal action now to assure me that my wishes will be carried out?

NOT A FANCY MAN
DEAR NOT: Morally, it would seem only right that you should have your say about what happens to your body after your demise. But legally, your remains may become the "property" of the next of kin. If I were you, I'd talk to my lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for about six months and we live a long way from his parents and mine.

We have a new two-bedroom home, but only one of the bedrooms is furnished. (Ours) My parents want to come to visit us and see our new home. We don't know whether we should give them our bed and rent something for us to sleep on, or keep our own bed and rent something for them to sleep on while they are here.

What do the etiquette books say about this?

NEEDS ADVICE
DEAR NEEDS: Who cares what the etiquette books say? Plain, old-fashioned consideration and respect for one's parents can tell you to give them the more comfortable sleeping accommodations.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Gothenburg Girl Is Winner

Sixteen-year-old Kandace Kampfe of Gothenburg will represent Nebraska in the national finals of the Make It Yourselves With Wool Contest to be held Jan. 24 in San Diego, Calif.

Miss Kampfe and other winners — including Brenda Spencer of Potter, who was named alternate — were chosen at the state competition held in Norfolk, Dec. 15.

The annual contest includes sewing and hand knitting competition. It is sponsored nationally by the Women's Auxiliary to the National Wool Growers Association and the American Wool Council.

The Nebraska competition was sponsored by the North Platte Valley Lamb Feeders, North Central Wool Marketing Association and a number of local firms.

Omaha Youth's Sentence Upheld

By The Associated Press

The Nebraska Supreme Court refused Friday to disturb the 3-to-9-year prison sentence given a 16-year-old Omaha youth on an assault charge growing out of a Nov. 6, 1972 disturbance at Omaha North High School.

The youth, Reginald McCowin, was one of five black youths accused of beating up white youths at the school. He pleaded guilty to assault with intent to inflict great bodily harm but appealed on grounds the sentence was excessive.

McCowin's attorneys contended the case should have been viewed in the light of schoolboy bullying which school administrators and civil authorities have dealt with for years outside the context of adult felony processes. A reduction of sentence to 12-18 months was asked.

But the Supreme Court held McCowin's crime "was a serious one and violent." The court reviewed McCowin's past offense record and refused to disturb the Douglas County District Court's conclusion that McCowin was dangerous to society, that rehabilitation and probation in the normal context had failed, and that McCowin could better be provided rehabilitation in an institution.

In other opinions Friday, the Supreme Court:

—Upheld the Buffalo County District Court in the amount of an award to Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Grantham for compensation for damage to their service station from construction of an adjoining building for the General Telephone Co. of the Midwest.

—Refused to alter the $24 months sentence given Monica Johnson in the Dodge County District Court on a no-account check charge conviction.

—Concurred with the Douglas County District Court in denying post-conviction relief to Carlos Henry, sentenced after pleading guilty to violating probation terms. He alleged he was inadequately represented by counsel.

—Dismissed on technical grounds a suit involving contentions of each of Betty J. Fritch and Jack L. Fritch that the other had failed to obey orders of the Saunders County District Court in a divorce proceeding.

—Upheld the one-year sentence which the Lancaster County District Court prescribed for Penal Complex inmate Wayne Detweiler on a charge of escaping custody.

—Affirmed the sentences imposed by the Scotts Bluff County District Court on Herbert L. Richter for assault with intent to inflict great bodily harm, and assaulting or resisting a law enforcement officer. The Supreme Court said the district court erred in denying Richter and his lawyer access to a presentence report on Richter, but said the error in this case was harmless.

—Affirmed the Douglas County District Court's denial of post-conviction relief to Raymond L. Moss, convicted of sodomy, robbery and use of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

—Rejected the contention of James A. Swift that the 8-12 year sentence imposed on him in the Lancaster County District Court for robbery was excessive.

—Refused to disturb the two year sentence given Lyle W. Griffith in the Douglas County District Court for unlawful possession of amphetamines.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Conflicting Medical Opinions Not Rare

By ROBERT PETERSON

It's important to listen to your doctor. But it's even more important to seek plural opinions when serious medical problems are indicated.

Over the years we've received hundreds of letters from readers telling of conflicting diagnoses and opinions they've received from different physicians.

Stomach pains have been diagnosed by one doctor as cancer, and by another as acidity. Dizziness has been diagnosed by one doctor as incipient Parkinson's disease, and by another as nerves. And chest pains are as frequently attributed to indigestion as to heart trouble.

As noted here recently, I once had a peptic ulcer which hemorrhaged. The internal bleeding stopped of its own accord, but my doctor was firm in saying we must proceed with surgery and remove part of my duodenum to forestall the possibility of further bleeding. He even went so far as to reserve an operating room at the local hospital.

But a friend urged me to consult another doctor, who examined me thoroughly and advised against surgery. He suggested instead that I go on an ulcer diet for a year, that I get to bed every night by 10 o'clock, and that I adopt a more tranquil attitude toward life.

Well, I took the latter's advice. The ulcer cured itself within six weeks and I've had no recurrence of the problem for more than 15 years now.

Here's a letter from a 71-year-old man who wonders how many dentists needlessly urge elders to have their teeth removed. "I had a badly abscessed tooth," he writes, "so I went to a dentist who took one look and began talking dentures. He said that at my age it was foolish to hang on to teeth which were sure to give me increasing trouble. I was all set to tell him to pull 'em, when common sense told me to get a second dentist's opinion.

"So I went to another dentist who looked over my teeth and said they weren't bad at all. He gave me an antibiotic that healed the abscessed tooth. Then he filled a bad cavity in that tooth, and several others. He cleaned my teeth and sent me on my way with the happy news that my teeth should last me the rest of my life.

"My teeth aren't exactly beautiful, but they meet my needs for chewing—and they're all mine. I wish you'd print this to remind folks of the importance of getting a second opinion before doing something so drastic as having all their teeth removed."

Meet Star Carrier Mark Bruner

A paper route teaches one how to handle money, assume responsibility and provides an opportunity to "meet a lot of nice people," says Mark Bruner of Lincoln.

A carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star for one year, Mark's excellent service and sales ability have been rewarded with increasing profits, numerous compliments and the Inland Press award.

Mark saves some of his profits and spends most of the rest of it on food and occasional toy for his dog.

A student at Whittier Junior High School, Mark earns excellent grades and is currently serving as class foreman. In his spare time, Mark enjoys hunting, fishing and working on model cars.

He also plays middle linebacker on a currently undefeated midget football team.

His parents are enthusiastic about Mark's business venture and the way it has helped him to mature and accept responsibility. "It is an experience that will stay with a young man for a

A Perfect Present

A puppy for Christmas. A warm little creature that looks up at you with appealing big brown eyes as he teeters on his wobbly legs. That's something few people can resist.

Before Christmas day is over, though, you may have had a qualm or two about this little fellow—when he starts teething on one of Dad's new Christmas slippers or on the living room rug.

Bringing up a puppy is not all pleasure. It is mixed with responsibility—and that's the way it is with most things in life. Pleasure, responsibility, work, play—it all goes to make up a kind of balance.

Going to church is like that. For home and church make up the most important balance in your life, each vital to the other. If you've been neglecting the church side of the scale, then you have been shortchanging yourself. Why not make up for it next Sunday?

Basketball, Wrestling District Assignments Set By NSAA

The Nebraska School Activities Association (NSAA) Friday announced district assignments for basketball and wrestling.

Although the NSAA has assigned chairmen for each district, sites for tournaments will not be determined until late January or early February.

In Class A basketball, Papillion was the Omaha metro-area team assigned to an "outstate" district. It joins Fremont, Norfolk and South Sioux City in district A-6.

Based on early season results, the toughest Class B district could be B-6 in which Aurora, Cozad, Holdrege, Lexington and Minden are included.

The eight district winners in Class A and B qualify for the state tournament in Lincoln next March 14-15-16. Class C and D district winners will be matched in regional games to qualify for state.

Classes A and B basketball schools retain that status for wrestling. Schools having a boy enrolment of 76 or more are Class C in wrestling with the others designated Class D.

Livestock Feeders Urge Reopening Of BP Plant

Dakota City (AP) — Officers, directors and members of the National Livestock Feeders Association (NLFA) demanded Friday that the management of Iowa Beef Processors take immediate steps to open their strike-bound Dakota City plant at the earliest possible date.

Currier Holman, co-chairman of the IBP board, told the NLFA that the "if the company could be assured of willing hands, we'd open the plant tomorrow."

The impact on the fed cattle market resulting from the shutdown since July 15 of the nation's largest cattle slaughtering and beef processing plant prompted the NLFA board to request the meeting with IBP officials and make its demands on the company.

The board decided unanimously to take the action in a meeting in Omaha Thursday. Around 200 cattle feeders from at least four states attended the meeting with IBP officials Friday.

"Cattle feeders cannot tolerate any longer the absence of an important competitive buyer in the market," NLFA Executive Vice President Don F. Magdanz told IBP.

"Furthermore," Magdanz said, "we can't afford to do without the breaking operation which can process nearly one-third of the boxed beef available in the United States."

While receiving numerous other arguments for opening the plant, IBP officials were alerted to possible courses of action by the NLFA where there was no response to NLFA demands.

Magdanz said, "The NLFA board had authorized alternative actions including, but not limited to, the following:

"—Bringing a class action suit to enjoin both the company and the union.

"—Insisting that the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service investigate the reasons for nonsettlement and use every power at its command to bring about a settlement.

"—Assist the company to secure employees from the rural areas in the event the union personnel continue to refuse to work."

In response to the NLFA demands, and speaking for IBP, Holman said, "I appreciate the seriousness of the situation for cattle feeders. The company would like as much as the cattle feeders to have the plant in operation and the management of the company will take the NLFA demands under immediate advisement."

MUD Customer Gas Use Down

Omaha (AP) — Customers of the Metropolitan Utilities District (MUD) are using nearly 6% less natural gas than they would use normally, a district spokesman said Thursday.

Joe Laferla, district operating manager, said this offers further evidence that there will be a substantial savings in fuel oil.

5 Arraigned In Columbus Check Theft

Columbus (AP) — Authorities said five local youths were arraigned Wednesday night and Thursday morning on a series of charges filed in connection with the theft of 10 paychecks from the Behlen Manufacturing Co. here.

Platte County officials said the checks totaled $964.58 and that they were apparently stolen from the firm Dec. 14.

Charged were Joseph L. Schwartz, 18; Michael M. Delarm, 19; David L. Behrens, 17; David B. Timms, 16, and a 15-year-old juvenile.

Officials alleged that the youths stole the checks, which were made out to Behlen employees, and cashed them by using forged endorsements.

After appearing for arraignment, the youths were released under bonds, which were set at $1,000 each.

NBC To Test FCC Finding About Fairness

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. will challenge in court a Federal Communications Commission finding that the network violated the fairness doctrine, an NBC spokesman said Friday.

The FCC decided 5-0, with two abstentions, on Dec. 3 that NBC had violated the government's fairness doctrine in a program 15 months ago about private pension plans.

The agency agreed with Accuracy in Media, an organization devoted to press criticism, that the documentary, "Pensions: The Broken Promise," was "propagandistic" in "ignoring the great achievement of American private enterprise in developing a pensions system that is overwhelmingly successful."

McConaughy Power Plans Are Advanced

Holdrege — The Central Nebraska (Tri-County) Public Power and Irrigation District has moved one step closer to possible construction of a conventional hydroelectric power

Audubon Society Eyes Expansion

ALMA, Kan. (AP) — The National Audubon Society is interested in acquiring more land for its 325-acre wildlife sanctuary along the Platte River south of Gibbon, Neb.

The society's regional representative, Ron Klataske, said Thursday that the society hopes to expand its holdings, which now include about 2 1/4 miles along one bank of the Platte and 1 1/4 along the other.

The land will be used as a haven for thousands of waterfowl which travel the Platte, for personal observation of wildlife, and for environmental education programs involving nearby schools, Klataske said.

Klataske said Audubon plans to dedicate the sanctuary in March.

Bishop Varley Said In 'Good' Condition

Omaha — The Rev. Robert P. Varley, bishop coadjutor of the Nebraska Episcopal Diocese, remained in "good" condition at Clarkson Hospital here Friday night, a hospital spokesman said.

Bishop Varley, 51, was admitted to the hospital Thursday and taken to the cardiac care section.

Oil Magnate Big Winner With Roulette

Thonon-les-Bains, France (UPI) — An unidentified Middle East oil magnate won 4.5 million francs (almost $1 million) recently in two nights at the Evian Casino roulette tables, casino officials said. It reportedly was the biggest win at the casino in 25 years.

A spokesman said the oilman, whom he refused to identify, frequently stops at the casino after business trips in Geneva. The mystery winner wagered up to $16,000 on a single turn of the wheel, the casino said.

Baton Twirling Hearing Held In Fairbury

Fairbury — Uncertainties about the gasoline shortage and winter weather in the Midwest have combined to cause postponement of the scheduled Dec. 29 National Baton Twirling Assn. contest in Fairbury.

Mrs. Connie Allen of Washington, Kan., who arranges the contest, said she and twirling teachers in the area agreed that worries about gasoline and bad weather had prompted them to consider an early spring date perhaps in March, for the annual contest.

The contests usually draw entrants from several Midwestern states.

College Area Board Abolition Clark Bill Goal

Sidney (AP) — A bill to abolish all technical community college area boards in Nebraska will be introduced in the upcoming session of the Legislature.

Dr. H.C.Q. Nelson of Sidney, chairman of the Western Nebraska Technical Community College board, said Thursday he had been notified of the proposed bill by Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney.

Clark's bill would turn over operation of the seven community college areas to the State Department of Education.

Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter said he is familiar with the bill and favors its passage.

Eastern Airlines Deficit Adds Up To $44.7 Million

New York (AP) — Eastern Airlines reported a deficit of $8.7 million for November, thus bringing its 11-month loss to $44.7 million.

A year ago, Eastern showed a net profit of $687,000 for November and $22 million in the first 11 months.

The carrier reported a 19% rise in November operating expenses, which reflected some of the fuel cost hikes the airlines have had to absorb, the company said. The results also reflected, it added, the reduced level of flights resulting from fuel allocations.

Hearing Held In Fairbury

Fairbury, Neb. (UPI) — Paul Hutchinson, 37, Fairbury, was bound over to Jefferson County District Court Friday on a charge of second degree murder.

Hutchinson appeared for preliminary hearing before County Judge Dennis Winkle in connection with the shotgun slaying of Jimmie Dean Kinsey, Fairbury. Kinsey was shot at close range in the chest with a 20-gauge shotgun.

Authorities said the incident occurred at the Randy Johnson farm two miles southeast of here.

Winkle continued a $50,000 bond for Hutchinson, who was returned to the county jail. No trial date was set.

Nitrogen Said To Fall 10% Short

Energy problems, both in manufacturing fertilizer and transporting it to growers, will cause a 10% shortage of nitrogen in the 1974 growing season, according to Dr. Richard Winkle, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension agronomist.

Wiese said growers must consider using alternate fertilizer nutrients.

"Energy, particularly (the) natural gas supply, is becoming more restrictive to make anhydrous ammonia," he said. "Diesel fuel supplies are (affecting) and will affect over-the-road transportation to distribute fertilizer materials from major barge or rail terminals."

Wiese said the predicted high fuel costs could make the manufacturing cost of anhydrous ammonia near or equal to the cost for which it was once delivered and applied.

Deere & Co. Reports Sales

Moline, Ill. (AP) — Deere & Co. reported its annual sales totaled $2 billion for the first time during the 1973 fiscal year that ended Oct. 31.

Earnings were the highest in history at $168.5 million or $5.75 a share compared with $112.2 million or $3.82 a share in 1972.

Worldwide sales of John Deere farm equipment, industrial equipment and consumer products amounted to $2,003 billion, a 34% rise from $1.5 billion in 1972.

Bids Are Under Estimate For NU Nursing Building

Omaha (AP) — Construction of a building for the University of Nebraska College of Nursing moved a step forward when apparent low bids came in about $33,000 under estimated costs.

Bids totaled $2,866,901, compared to the estimate of $2.9 million.

Gas Retailer Says Voluntary Cuts 'Terrible'

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The president of the Iowa-Nebraska Gasoline Retailers Association said Thursday that voluntary rationing will not work.

"I think it's terrible...I'll never do it," G. F. Wentworth, operator of a service station in Omaha, said.

Wentworth commented following a call by William E. Simon, federal energy chief, for consumers and retailers to limit sales to 10 gallons a week.

"I'm sure we'll see rationing in March," Wentworth said, "and I'm going to let the federal government set up the rationing requirements. I'm not going to do it."

He said he plans to take care of his regular customers and turn away motorists he doesn't recognize.

Freeze Caused Loss Estimated At $20 Million

Clewiston, Fla. (AP) — A major freeze which struck Florida's sugar cane fields earlier this month may cost farmers between $20 million and $50 million in crop damage, a sugar industry official said.

Nelson Fairbanks, general manager of Florida Sugar Cane League, said the Dec. 12 freeze had damaged three-fourths of the state's 265,433 acres of sugar cane.

Thoughts from tco
Energy Crisis!

It looks like the future will make travel tough. Your life style will revolve around your home. Will YOUR home provide room for fun and hangouts? Or will you go out of your mind in a cramped situation with the walls closing in on you? It is the buyer's market in four years. Buy your life style today.

WEDGEWOOD SWIMMING? Sure it's cold now, but come spring, WOW! Yes, this 4 bedroom, 3 bath beauty has a real pool. Slide in from the back yard, or use the diving board. For real living, see this home today, and make an offer. Call Bob Tune, 464-5988.

FIREPLACES - not one, but two to cuddle up by on these cold winter nights. What else? Well, 4 bedrooms, it's a walkout ranch, central air, patio, deck, and a family room. A bar room, den, plus close to swimming, boating, ice skating, and fishing. It's ready for immediate occupancy and is in the lower forties. Call today, Bob Tune.

Merry Christmas!

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
